

On July 16th BVAC celebrated our 5th Anniversary with an open day at Wellers Hill Arts Hub, after a few years of getting the parts together we were finally able to unveil our sign proudly showing everyone where our home base is.

Above: Krista Adams our local councillor attended and helped President Peter Rayson and Former President Lena Tisdall with the unveiling while Sandra Evans, our treasurer looked on,

Upstairs was a hive of activity, with displays by Restich, APAT, Scattered Arts and Queensland Bookbinders demonstrating some of the different crafts and tucked in the corner, the Queensland Watercolour Society had their library open and were showing off the great collection of books that members get access to.

Left: APAZ put on a lovely display, Visiting with the bookbinders, Restich had a great display showing what you can do with clothes you no longer wear, Sandra is keeping busy demonstrating painting on porcelain. Right: display of ceramics ready to be worked on, Scattered Arts showed off the wide range of arts they have in their gallery, Wendy and Helen chatting to patrons on the day.

Queensland Leathercrafters, Creative Glass Guild and the Queensland Enamellers Guild were among the groups demonstrating downstairs, had to love the leathercrafter using any old doorknob to hang her braiding, kept her busy all day.

And here we have Western Suburbs Clay workers display and just outside they were busy throwing on the wheel, Allie was given lessons by Anthony and had a ball, Judy was getting down and dirty as you can see by her hands,

The ladies of the Queensland Papermakers and Migaloo Press had displays and demonstration, including hands on, there were a few people wandering around with lovely samples they had made,

And finally the Sign was unveiled and much coffee drunk, sausages sizzled by the Girl Guides and so much fun had by all the people who attended,

We had so much fun this time we are going to do it again next year, so save the date, July 15th 2018 and come along.
